ANNALS OF COLLECTIVE ECONOMY . . . 1962

The Annals of Collective Economy were founded in 1908, as a French-language publication (Annales de l'économie collective), by Edgard Milhaud.

The English issue has been published since 1925, as has the German issue (Annalen der Gemeinwirtschaft).

Until April 1960 Edgard Milhaud was director of the three issues.

Since 1947, the Annals have been the official review of the International Centre of Research and Information on Collective Economy (ICRICE).

The expression "collective economy", as used by the ICRICE and in the Annals, covers all economic activities intended to render a service directly to the community. Both the ICRICE and the Annals are concerned with the following problems:

economic action by the State, national and regional planning;
activities of municipal authorities;
public enterprise;
co-operation;
the role of the trade unions in the economic field.

The work of Edgard Milhaud, the founder of the ICRICE, has aroused so much interest in different parts of the world that many municipal authorities, co-operatives and trade unions have voluntarily come forward to offer their aid.

In addition to the united efforts of all these bodies, the Centre is aided by its national sections (in Austria, Belgium, France, the Federal Republic of Germany, Greece, Italy, Luxembourg, Switzerland and Yugoslavia).

In addition, the Fondation universitaire de Belgique has been assisting the Centre with the publication of the Annals since 1962.
